

Arup's Seattle Diverse Business Open House January 24, 2024

As inspired and engaged community members, we all strive to make the Pacific Northwest an even better place to live, work, and play, in the present as well as for future generations.

At Arup, we believe the most effective way to realize real change is to draw upon a variety of perspectives through partnership with firms and people who share our commitment to sustainable development. Our unique local knowledge and experiences, relationships, and perspectives are essential to address the critical challenges we face at this time.

We hope you can join our open house to learn more about Arup – we'd love to listen, learn, and work with you to shape a better world.

Why attend our open house?

For us it's not just about checking boxes and meeting minimum requirements – it's about building relationships, cultivating local expertise and experiences, and welcoming diverse perspectives into the discussion. Our goal for this event is to build and strengthen long-term relationships with local diverse business firms, and to specifically seek out partners on specific upcoming opportunities with Sound Transit, Port of Seattle, City of Seattle, King County, and more. In the long term, this event also is a moment to connect with diverse firms that want to meet Arup leadership and discuss potential partnerships across other businesses and services.
